ITALIAN MEDIUM TANKS 1939-45

Inspired by its British and French counterparts, the M 11 / 39 was a 11-ton medium tank chiefly intended for use as an infantry tank, with its main gun (a 37/40 gun) mounted in a casemate in the hull and its small turret armed only with two machine guns. In June 1940, when Italy entered the war, her armored inventory numbered fewer than 1,500 light tanks and the 100 newly built M 11 medium tanks, divided amongst three armored divisions, three cavalry groups, and several independent tank battalions. Scheduled to ship in December 2012.
